Rescue at sea

My name is Bruno. Last summer I went on a Mediterranean cruise with my parents. The ship was huge and I had my own cabin with a small window and a view of the sea. As we were leaving port, I stood on the top deck of the ship waving goodbye to all the people. When I couldn't see them anymore, I went down to my cabin.

I was in my cabin when I heard an unexpected noise. It was a dog barking. I went to the cabin window and saw something in the distance that looked like a fishing boat. As it got closer, I saw a fisherman and his fluffy black dog in the boat. I ran up the stairs and told the captain. He lowered a lifeboat to the fisherman and his dog.

When the fisherman got onto the cruise ship, he told us his story. His name was Andreas and his dog was called Filo. The engine on his boat was damaged and he didn't have a mobile phone. Andreas was happy that I heard Filo barking. I was happy that a dog was on the cruise with us!

- 1 Bruno was travelling alone.
- 2 Bruno was in his cabin when the ship was leaving.
- 3 While Bruno was in his cabin he heard a noise.
- 4 The fisherman was talking on the phone when Bruno saw him.
- 5 The boat's engine was damaged.
- 6 Bruno was unhappy that Filo was on the ship.

“A Day Without Technology”

Last Saturday, Emma’s teacher gave her class a challenge: spend one day without using any technology. That meant no phones, computers, tablets, or television! At first, Emma thought it would be easy. But when she woke up, she wanted to check her messages – and then she remembered the challenge.

Instead of playing games online, Emma decided to go outside. She took her dog, Max, for a long walk in the park. She noticed the bright blue sky, the sound of birds, and the laughter of children. Later, she helped her mom cook lunch and played a board game with her little brother.

At the end of the day, Emma felt happy and relaxed. She realized that sometimes, disconnecting helps you connect with the world around you.
