An Unexpected Change of Plans

Emma had planned to spend Sunday hiking with her friends, but when she woke up, it was raining heavily. Instead of cancelling the day, they decided to visit a local art museum. None of them had been there before, so they were curious.

They spent several hours exploring the exhibits and talking about their favourite paintings. Later, they had coffee and cake in the museum café.

By the end of the day, Emma realized she had enjoyed it even more than hiking and promised herself to visit museums more often.
