Part two | Listen to the teacher and complete the missing words.

Every human being has a unique identity and personality, shaped by both experience and genetics. Some personality traits are heritable, while others are developed through environment and behavior. Scientists study how the brain and mind work together to form memory, knowledge, and insight. A powerful attitude can influence success, and being surrounded by supportive colleagues and peers helps people be united toward a significant goal. Our actions, whether emotional or chemical, show that natural traits and learning go hand in hand.
