

Present perfect simple X present perfect continuous

I. Choose the correct option

1. I have had / have been having an accident with your car, Helen. I'm really sorry.
2. I don't believe it! Somebody has eaten / has been eating my chocolates! They have nearly been gone!
3. I have waited / have been waiting for you for ages! Where have you been?
4. I have broken / have been breaking a glass. I'm awfully sorry.
5. How many biscuits have you eaten / have you been eating today?
6. Why is your face so red? – I have run / have been running.
7. I have never met / have never been meeting a nicer person in my life.
8. How long have you known / have you been knowing Charles and Lisa?
9. He has written / has been writing a book for nearly a year. It'll be finished soon.
10. He has written / has been writing a book. I saw it in the bookshop last week.
11. The children are very quiet. They have watched / have been watching videos all morning.
12. They have watched / have been watching five videos already.

II. Present perfect simple or present perfect continuous?

1. I'm exhausted. I _____ all day, and I _____ yet.
2. He _____ a lot of jobs over the past few years.
3. Someone _____ my car keys.
I _____ them for ages, I _____ them yet.
4. I _____ all morning, but I _____ anything.
5. That's one of the best jokes I _____.
6. A: You are really dirty. What _____?
B: I _____ in the garden.
7. Everything is white! I _____.
8. I _____ you for the past half an hour, but I am afraid I _____ a single word.
9. A: Are you all right?
B: No, I _____ on the computer for hours and I have got a headache.
10. I _____ to lose weight for ages.
I _____ five kilos so far.