The race

Last Tuesday David and Katy's sports teacher, Mr Long, said to their class: 'This Friday we are going to have a race to the next village and back to school. You can do the race with one friend. The students who finish first win a great prize.'

David and Katy were very excited. They said, 'Let's run together.' David whispered to Katy, 'Sarah and Jack are better at running than us, but I've got an idea to help us win!'

On Friday morning the class met outside the school. At 11 o'clock, Mr Long shouted 'Go!' and the children started running. Sarah and Jack ran off very fast.

Katy and David weren't so quick. They walked some of the way because they got tired. Near the end of the race in Queen Street, David got some money out of a pocket in his shorts. When a bus arrived they got on it. They got off near their school. Then they ran to the end of the race. When they finished first, Mr Long said, 'You caught the bus, didn't you! That was a clever idea, but very naughty. Here are Sarah and Jack. They win the race!' He said 'Well done!' to Jack and Sarah and gave them two tickets for a big basketball match. Katy and David felt very bad, but they were happy for Sarah and Jack.
