Karina Moore – teenage high diver!

Several times a week, teenager Karina Moore trains at her local pool to jump from the high-diving board into the water – in an attempt to become a national diving champion.

Karina first learned about diving during a family break in Spain, where the resort's pool had a high-diving board. Young people were diving off it, and it looked fun, but Karina didn't join in, even though she was a strong swimmer. Then after returning home, she discovered a long-distance runner she'd always admired had started diving for relaxation – so she became more interested.

Karina joined a beginners' diving class at her local pool. They had several sessions jumping onto soft materials before trying the high board. 'The water looked a long way down,' says Karina, 'but after our training, I felt I'd handle it – without injuring myself.'

They'd warned me I'd land in the water fast – at around 60 kph – but I was prepared. I couldn't wait to get started – although the others weren't so keen! Anyway, I wasn't disappointed by the experience.'

In Karina's area, there's now lots of interest in high diving, but it's sometimes difficult for swimmers to find suitable practice facilities. Although the pools are deep enough, they're in use so often by diving clubs that other people don't get opportunities to practise. Fortunately, though, Karina's coach noticed her talent and helped her develop her techniques. After also two years, she's winning competitions in her area

But what's it like to concentrate so much on diving? 'I train 20 hours a week' says Karina, 'and I won't pretend it's easy – you have to enjoy it to spend so much time doing it! It's not easy for my parents either, though – they drive me to training sessions early in the morning, and that costs money. But they're had financial help from sports organisations, luckily. And my schoolwork and social life are good. I still meet my mates – and there's always the phone! The only thing I hadn't realised was that the pool water would damage my hair – I used to love my long hair, but I've had to cut it short because it looked awful! But I'll definitely keep on diving!'

1 What made Karina keen to take up diving?

- A She wanted to repeat her holiday experience.
- B She found out her athletics hero had taken it up.
- C She'd visited a pool where some teenagers were doing it.
- D She wanted a new challenge after her success at swimming.

2 How did Karina feel the first time she used the high board?

- A worried about how far it was above the pool
- B pleased to experience it with other beginners
- C confident that she wouldn't get hurt
- D shocked to hit the water at such speed

3 What does the writer suggest about diving facilities in Karina's area?

- A They're not used as much as they could be.
- B There aren't enough coaches teaching people to use them.
- C There aren't as many boards as there used to be.
- D They're not available to the public for long enough each day.

4 How does Karina feel about spending so much time diving?

- A surprised by one effect it has had on her
- B sorry she no longer sees her friends so much
- C anxious about the amount of money it costs
- D grateful to be able to focus on something she loves

5 What would the writer say about Karina?

- A She's a young girl who's achieved a lot by becoming a national diving champion – and all with very little support.
- B She's made enormous progress in a very short time – after only a couple of years, she's already showing great signs of success.
- C She has a lot of natural talent, but she's already thinking of having a break from the high board for a while.
- D She's sad that she's given up almost everything for her sport – and her lifestyle really sounds quite hard.

Computer game exhibition

Have you ever tried playing the kind of video games that your parents played? The Museum of Science in Manchester, in the UK, has held an exhibition for the last few years, which invites visitors to do exactly that. It offers them the chance to play games from the last 40 years, in various sessions throughout the day.

These video games sessions have now become one of the main attractions of the museum. They are full of people every day, playing a wide range of games.

(1)..... For parents, for example, these are usually the games they used to play in their childhood.

There's also an educational purpose to the games. For instance, some old types of computer, dating back 40 years, are also available in the sessions. They were originally used in classrooms to teach pupils to write their own computer programs.

(2)..... Now, the museum is holding workshops that encourage children to learn similar skills – and they're still very popular.

The sessions are also seen as social events, as people discover how much fun it is to play video games with other family members. And there's also an area at Power Up! where a number of visitors can sit down together. (3)..... And nowadays, this is often how fans of video games are more likely to experience playing.

The exhibition also shows how much progress technology has made over the last 40 years. Parents can often remember playing very simple games. But the games that are played today are more complex. (4)..... And the players also have to use much more complicated techniques.

However, one serious side of the exhibition is that organisers also want to show that video gaming is an important industry, employing many skilled people.

(5)..... That way, people who enjoy gaming will also understand all the hard work, talent and imagination that goes into creating these amazing games.

A Visitors each pay for 90-minute sessions.

B And at the time, it helped lots of young people to do that.

C So they hope the exhibition will share this message.

D But not everyone thinks it's a lot of fun.

E However, visitors often choose the ones they're similar with.

F They have better storylines and animation, too.

G They also create the music to go with the game.

H Then they can all enjoy playing the same game.
