THE MOSQUITO NIGHT

It was a hot night in Mai's village. The weather was warm and wet, so there were many mosquitoes around the house. Mai's mother used insect repellent before going to bed. Her father also lit two mosquito coils near the window to keep them away.

Mai slept under a mosquito net, but she woke up in the night. A mosquito bit her arm, and it was very itchy. In the morning, her father went to a small pond behind the house. He saw many mosquitoes on the water and saw they were laying eggs.

He told Mai that mosquitoes live in water and can make people sick with malaria. After breakfast, Mai helped her father cover the pond and clean the garden. She also saw a mosquito drinking nectar from a flower.

That night, Mai was happy because there were fewer mosquitoes, and her arm felt better.
