

I. Choose the word that best describes each action.

1. You put your feet on the table at a formal dinner.

- a. aggressive
- b. appropriate
- c. impolite
- d. respectful

2. You listen quietly when someone speaks to you.

- a. respectful
- b. disrespectful
- c. inappropriate
- d. honest

3. You smile when you meet for the first time.

- a. disrespectful
- b. common
- c. impolite
- d. inappropriate

4. You offer your guests food, drink, and other refreshments.

- a. inconsiderate
- b. rude
- c. disrespectful
- d. polite

II. Complete each sentence with the correct word.

5. Are you OK? Your facial _____ right now looks upset.

6. It's only 3:00 PM, but I'm so tired. It's because I have jet _____.

7. When you meet new people, you often make _____ talk before you get to know them.

8. I need to change my _____ habits if I want to lose weight.

III. Match the phrases to make the best complete sentences. Write the letter in the blank space.

- 1. ___ It's rude
- 2. ___ Talking is disrespectful
- 3. ___ Eating a late dinner
- 4. ___ Having tea with dinner

- a. to speak when you have food in your mouth.
- b. after midnight is common in Greece.
- c. is normal in China.
- d. after the movie begins.

IV. Match the phrases to make the best complete sentences. Write the letter in the blank space.

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. ___ When I'm in the car, | a. after I finish college. |
| 2. ___ I'm going to law school | b. I listen to relaxing music. |
| 3. ___ Once we save enough money, | c. Molly's going to go to preschool. |
| 4. ___ As soon as she's four, | d. we're going to buy a house. |

V. Write T for true or F for false for each sentence. Track 5

1. ___ Deena is new to Clown University.
2. ___ Professor Chuckles is a student at Clown University.
3. ___ Clown University has ten rules.

VI. Read the email. Write T for True or F for False for each sentence.

Hey Dan,

You asked me to tell you about my trip last year and what cultural differences I noticed so here goes. As you know, I went to a lot of places during my trip and I think a lot of the differences that stay in my mind relate to food and eating.

I really enjoyed trying all the different foods, but I discovered that there are a few rules about how to eat your food in these places. In Thailand, for example, I learned that it's impolite to use a fork to put food into your mouth. It's OK to use a fork, but only to push food onto a spoon. In China, I found it really difficult to use the chopsticks, but with practice I got better. I had one meal with a family in Beijing that my friend knew, and I found out that eating everything on your plate in China can mean that you're still hungry, so I had to learn to leave a small amount on my plate otherwise the meal would never end! It's confusing because in other places, like India, eating everything on your plate is a way of showing that you enjoyed your meal.

I'm planning to visit Europe next year so I'm pretty sure there will be some big differences there, too.

Speak soon!
Ethan

1. ___ Ethan went travelling two years ago.
2. ___ Ethan ate a meal with a family in China during his trip.
3. ___ It's impolite to leave food on your plate in China.
4. ___ In India, finishing all your food shows that you really liked it.

VII. Unscramble the words to make a correct question or statement. Insert commas where necessary.

1. shoes / wear / all right / it / I / if / is / ?

2. OK / fingers / use / it / is / to / my / ?

3. course / of / Yes, / .

VIII. Read the prompt and write an 80 to 120-word How-to presentation. Create a Word/ Pages document with your writing task, name it 'YourName_WritingTask,' and send it privately to your teacher via WhatsApp.

- Some international students are visiting your country for the first time. They will be staying with host families and studying or working in your town. Prepare a How-to guide on living and working in your country.