

B: This article is called 'Look Good, Feel Good'. It has some nice clothes and some good health tips. You want a healthier lifestyle, don't you, Ella?

E: Mmm?

B: Actually, there are some really nice clothes in this article. What should I wear tonight? Those are nice pants. Should I wear pants tonight, Ella? Or a dress? I think I'll wear a dress. It's a party, after all.

E: Mmm.

B: Anyway, here's some good advice on how to take care of your body. Oh, you shouldn't spend too much time on your (1) _____ – the screen is bad for your (2) _____.

E: Mmm?

B: I like this one. Sleep is good for your (3) _____. I think your heart is very healthy, Ella. You're always asleep! And sleeping on a firm bed helps with a bad back. Interesting.

E: Mmm?

B: And do you know how to improve your (4) _____? You should listen to classical music every day.

E: Oh?

B: Yes! It says it here. Ha! I didn't know Mozart could make you more intelligent!

E: Mmm.

B: Ooh! Rolling a small ball under your (5) _____ is good for you. It helps the blood flow around your body.

E: Really?

B: You should eat yogurt to keep your (6) _____ healthy. Everyone knows that! Coffee is good for you. Is it? Oh, I see. You should put it on your (7) _____. It makes it soft.

E: Mmm.

B: But you shouldn't drink too much coffee – it keeps you awake. Ella? Coffee keeps you awake. Ella? Are you awake?

E: Mmm? Oh, yes, please.

B: What do you mean 'yes, please'? Are you listening to me?

E: Of course I am. You just offered me some cake.

B: I said 'awake.' You never listen to me. I'm giving you all of this great health advice for free and as usual, you're not listening!

E: Mmhmm. Sorry, what did you say?