"The Meaning Behind Lebaran Traditions"

Lebaran, or Eid al Fitr, is more than a celebration. It is filled with deep cultural meanings. The tradition of mudik, which means homecoming, shows how important family is in Indonesian culture. People travel long distances to be with their loved ones.

The ketupat we eat has special meanings. The woven coconut leaves represent the complexities of human life. The white rice inside symbolizes purity and holiness. This reminds us to purify our hearts during Lebaran.

Another important tradition is sungkem. In this tradition, younger family members bow and kiss the hands of their elders to ask for forgiveness. This shows respect and maintains family harmony. The halal bi halal event, where communities gather, continues this spirit of forgiveness.

THR, or Tunjangan Hari Raya, is not just about money. It is a way to share happiness and help others celebrate Lebaran comfortably.
