Kite Festivals

Kite festivals are fun and colourful events that happen in many places around the world. People of all ages enjoy flying kites during these festivals. Let's learn more about them!

Kite festivals usually take place in open fields or parks. People meet and bring their kites and the sky is suddenly filled with vibrant colours and different shapes. Kites can be big or small and they come in various designs. Some kites look like birds while others have beautiful patterns or drawings.

During these festivals, people compete to see who can keep their kite in the air the longest. It's not easy because the wind can be tricky. You must pay attention to the wind! Kids and adults run and laugh as they try to fly their kites higher and higher.

People often bring delicious snacks and drinks to enjoy with their family. You usually see stalls selling ice cream, popcorn and cool drinks. It's a great way to spend a day outdoors and have fun.

In some countries, kite festivals have special traditions. In India, for example, they celebrate Makar Sankranti with kite flying. In China, the tradition of kite flying has been around for thousands of years. It's a way to celebrate and bring good luck.
