V/ READING

Read the email from Sarah to her mother. Write T (True), F (False), or NG (Not Given).

Hi Mom,

Well, I've just finished my first week at university. I can't quite believe it! Everything's fine, except I'm not really happy with my accommodation. They've given me a room in one of the blocks on campus, which is great because it's a quick walk to lectures and the gym and the student restaurant and so on. But the room itself is not very good. I'm sharing with another fresher (first-year) student called Anita, and she's fine, but I wish we had more room for all our stuff. You could say it was cozy, but it's cold and the furniture is horrible – old, wooden stuff. And I wish I had the bed from my room at home, because the one here is not very comfortable, but at least it's not a bunk bed!

There are about 200 freshers in this block, so it's quite noisy. I wish there was a rule about no music after 10.00. I love all the jazz and rock coming from the different rooms, but you know I always want to be asleep by 11.00!

I wish I had my own bathroom, but I only have to share the one which is down the hall with four other girls, so it's not too bad.

There's a common area with a television – one of the old ones, not flat-screen – but of course, we all have laptops, tablets, or smartphones, so it's not even turned on most of the time. It's a good place to meet the other students, though, and have a coffee from the machine.

Well, that's all for now. Don't worry about me. It's cool!
