The national gallery houses one of the richest collections of painting in the world. It stands to the north of the Trafalgar Square. The collection covers all schools and periods of painting. The National gallery was founded in 1824 when the government bought the collection of John Angerstein.

This text tells about ...

- 1) a popular singer
 - 2) a film star
 - 3) a famous writer
 - 4) a great inventor
 - 5) a famous artist
 - 6) the first European in America
- A. Little did she, in her wildest dreams, though that a delayed train journey from Manchester to London would change her life for good! The woman behind the Harry Potter franchise, J.K. Rowling or simply Joanne Rowling is one of the best-selling authors today. Rowling's is a typical rags to riches story — from living on state benefits to becoming a multi-millionaire author.
- B. A popular musical figure for over five decades, he was well-known for the creativity he infused into his works. Born and raised in Brixton, south London, he became interested in music at a young age. Soon there was no doubt in his mind that his calling was to become a singer. However, his claim to stardom did not come easy.
- C. Jan was a slow worker, producing only three paintings a year. This was partly due to his technique of granular painting. He built up layers of colour — a technique known as pointille. This enabled a depth of colour to shine through. He was meticulous in capturing the light and colour of his various subjects. Unusually for the time, Jan often focused on simple household scenes such as 'The Milkmaid' or the 'Music Lesson'.
- D. Leif Erikson was an Icelandic explorer who became the first European to reach North America. Much of Leif Erikson's life is generated by the two sagas. Though the two describe Erikson's voyage to North America differently, they agree on the point that Erikson found America, much before Christopher Columbus did. Spending winter in Vinland, he sailed back to Greenland. Erikson spent much of his later life spreading Christianity.

E. Tom Hardy is well-known for his powerful performances in films like 'Mad Max: Fury Road', 'Inception', and 'The Revenant'. He first discovered his passion for acting when he was a young boy, but his drug addiction and alcoholism held him back from fulfilling his dreams for a few years. He is completely dedicated to his profession and gets totally involved in the character he plays.
