

DECEMBER 2014 MATURE VOCABULARY EXERCISES {PR}

Fill in missing prepositions

1. It is absurd to argue this.
2. She laughed response his jokes.
3. They insist playing their music late at night.
4. She came up a great idea for increasing sales.
5. The class burst laughing.
6. Thousands of English words derive Latin.
7. Fresh flowers will brighten any room in the house.
8. Clean this room immediately - and that's an order!
9. Is there anything particular you'd like for dinner?
10. Do you think many people will turn?
11. You should concentrate your study.
12. She is about to embark a diplomatic career.
13. Edinburgh is well provided clinical teaching hospitals.
14. He was obsessed American gangster movies.
15. There is a ban smoking in petrol stations.
16. We managed to get to the airport time.
17. Your headaches are due stress.
18. Many hair problems result what you eat.
19. I fully understand the reason your decision.
20. Stick the main roads and you won't get lost.
21. The history of tobacco growing is associated colonialism and slavery.
22. Focus small goals instead of big ones.
23. It's much easier compared last time.
24. She refused to testify her husband.
25. The insurance company is responsible this case.

26. The park was filled People.
27. Don't turn from your old friends.
28. Paul likes to boasthis achievements.
29. Don't starepeople like that, it's rude.
30. The explorers set to conquer new territories.
31. How did you find about the party?
32. How did it turn?
33. We had 200 people showfor our seminar.
34. I'm sure it'll work
35. She sether own software firm.
36. Both buildings were badly affected the fire.
37. The police have so far failed to track the attacker.