The Champion of Panjat Pinang

Last Independence Day, my village held a panjat pinang competition. Many people came to the field to watch the event. The pole was covered with oil, so the players had to work together to reach the prizes at the top.

My team tried several times, but we often slipped down because the pole was very slippery. The crowd cheered and clapped every time we climbed the pole. After a few attempts, we finally managed to get higher.

In the last attempt, my friend reached the top and took the grand prize, while I grabbed a small gift box. We both smiled because we felt proud of our hard work.

At the end of the event, everyone shouted happily. We became the champions of the panjat pinang competition.
