Tourist: Excuse me! Can you give me some information about the Museum of Tomorrow?

Guide: Of course! The Museum of Tomorrow is a science museum focused on the future of humanity, sustainability, and the planet.

Tourist: That sounds interesting. What can people do there?

Guide: Visitors can explore interactive exhibitions, watch immersive videos, and learn about climate change, technology, and how our actions affect the future.

Tourist: Nice! How much is the entrance fee?

Guide: Tickets usually cost around a small fee, and there are free admission days, often on Tuesdays. It's always a good idea to check the official website for updated prices.

Tourist: Good to know. What are the opening hours?

Guide: The museum is generally open from Tuesday to Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with the last entry in the late afternoon.

Tourist: Are there any rules about what is allowed inside?

Guide: Yes. You can take photos, but flash and tripods are not allowed. Large backpacks, food, and drinks can't be inside the exhibition areas too.

Tourist: Can I bring a water bottle?

Guide: You can take a small water bottle, but they must be kept closed. You also can't eat inside the exhibition rooms.

Tourist: I see. Is the museum good for children?

Guide: Yes, it's very educational and interactive, so children and teenagers usually enjoy it a lot.

Tourist: Thank you very much for the information!

Guide: You're welcome! Enjoy your visit to the Museum of Tomorrow.
