

Conversation 2.17

Reporter: Dr. Chang, what is the
of ENERGIZE?

Dr. Chang: The objective of our organization is to help reduce dependency on traditional sources of energy such as oil.

Reporter: In your opinion, what is the best way to that?

Dr. Chang: The way I see it, we need to influence public policy and people's behavior.

Reporter: Some predict that in fifty years'
time most of the world's oil reserves will have been used up.
What's your view?

Dr. Chang: I believe the world will have run out of low-cost oil by then. So, we have to find alternative sources of .

Reporter: Can you give us some examples?

Dr. Chang: Sure. Countries should take advantage of the resources available to them.
Countries that have hot springs and geysers can develop geothermal energy; those that have lots of sunshine should invest in solar panels; the sea tides can provide power in other places; some places can make good use of wind energy, and so on.
