Reading 4a

Extreme IRONING

Household chores may be a household bore, but not when they become extreme sports.

There are many strange sports in the world and here is a new one that you might like to try.

Extreme ironing is very simple. You take your ironing board, your iron and a piece of clothing to somewhere out of the ordinary and ... you iron. There is an annual competition for the best photograph of extreme ironing.

A lot of people take it very seriously and train for the competition. To do extreme ironing you need stamina, but you also have to iron with grace – you see, this sport is like dancing.

There are photographs of people ironing underwater, on the tops of mountains or riding on bikes. You can iron on your own or with a team of friends.

Extreme ironing might never become an Olympic sport, but at least you can do something exciting and still have nicely ironed clothes at the end of the day.

THE RULES

- Your ironing board must be at least 1 m long.
- You mustn't use a toy iron. It must be real.
- You might like to wear some protective clothing like a helmet or goggles.
- You don't have to film yourself; a photograph is enough.
- You have to iron at least one piece of clothing.
