

Read the paragraph below. Find the five misspelled words and circle them.
Then, on the numbered lines, write the correct spelling for each circled word.

S-s-snakes! Harmless or venomus, common or rare, these reptiles catch our attention. They come in numerus types. They can live in the driest deserts and the wettest jungles. In India, cobras perform for ambitius snake charmers. In China, some diners consider python a luscious treat. In several Native American cultures, rattlesnakes have been considered miraculis gods. We humans may love snakes or hate them, but we seldom ignore them.

1.

2.

3.

4.

5.