4.) Recycling is the process of converting old products into something new. We make products from natural resources, such as trees, and turn them into something we need. These resources sometimes grow back slowly, if at all. When you recycle, you are helping to save these precious resources. Another benefit of recycling is that it helps reduce the amount of waste that goes into landfills.

- a. Recycling is important to preserving our planet's future.
- b. I like to recycle.
- c. Trees are natural resources.
- d. Everyone should recycle.

5.) Year round schooling means students attend classes all throughout the year but they have shorter, more frequent breaks. Some believe this is valuable because it keeps the learning process going. During the long summer vacation, students can forget what they have learned. When the school year starts back up again, teachers often have to reteach some things covered last year. Year round schools don't have such long gaps, meaning students are less likely to forget. This is why we should have year round schools.

- a. Year round schools never take any breaks.

- b. Summer breaks make students forget what they learned.
- c. I like year round schools.
- d. Having school year round would be beneficial to students.
