ACTIVITY 2 (READING COMPREHENSION AND TEXT ANALYZE)

Reading Passage

How Does Global Warming Happen?

Global warming is the unusually rapid increase in Earth's average surface temperature over the past century. This phenomenon is mainly due to the greenhouse gases released by people burning fossil fuels.

The process begins when sunlight reaches the Earth. Some of this energy is absorbed by the land and the ocean, while the rest is radiated back into space. However, greenhouse gases in the atmosphere trap some of the heat. Consequently, the earth becomes warmer. This happens because the gases act like a blanket for the planet.

As the temperature rises, the polar ice melts and sea levels start to rise. Moreover, extreme weather events like heatwaves and storms become more frequent. We must reduce our carbon footprint so that we can protect our planet for future generations.
