

Spelling week 3

Topic: Digraphs sh,
th, ph, ch, tch

What is a digraph?

A digraph is two letters that work together to make one sound.

Examples:

- sh → /sh/ as in ship
- ch → /ch/ as in chop
- th → /th/ as in this or thin
- ph → /f/ as in phone

- father: a male parent.
My father helps me.

- chapter: a part of a book.
Read chapter one.

- other: different from this one.
Try the other one.

- alphabet: the letters A to Z.
I know the alphabet.

- watch: to look carefully.
Watch the video.

- English – a language.
We speak English in class.

- weather: sun, rain, wind, etc.

The weather is rainy.

- catch: to grab after it is thrown.

Catch the ball!

- fashion: popular style or clothes.
Fashion changes every year.

- shrink: to get smaller.
My shirt can shrink.

- pitcher: the player who throws the ball.

The pitcher throws fast.

- flash: a quick bright light.
I saw a flash of light.

- athlete: a person who plays sports.
She is a great athlete.

- trophy: a prize you win.
He won a trophy.

- nephew: your brother's or sister's son.

My nephew is six.

- northern: from the north.
We live in northern Honduras.

- establish: to start and set up.
They establish new rules.

- emphasis: special stress or importance.

Put emphasis on “th.” “ ”

- hyphen: the symbol (-).
Use a hyphen in “t-shirt.”

- challenge: something difficult.
This test is a challenge.

