

In 1–7, one of the three alternatives is incorrect. Cross it out.

- 0 You might not/may not/cannot leave until I give you permission.
- 1 It's not my scarf – I think it might/could/can be Graham's.
- 2 It might/may/could not be warm enough to eat outside tonight, but we'll keep our fingers crossed.
- 3 He's so lazy – he might/may/could at least offer to do the washing up!
- 4 I know you didn't want to come, but you might/may/could as well try and enjoy yourself now that you're here.
- 5 Don't run across the road like that again – you might/may/could have been run over!
- 6 It was a tough walk, but we could/were able to/managed to reach the end before it got dark.
- 7 Police are now saying that the fire might/may/could not have been started deliberately, although they have refused to rule out the possibility of arson entirely.

Choose the most suitable adjectives to complete the text.

GRACE UNDER FIRE

Grace Spellacy always enjoyed cooking, but it wasn't enough just to cook for her friends and family. Since early childhood, she'd always had a (1) burning / complete / resounding ambition to open her own restaurant one day. Of course, Grace realised that she couldn't simply open a restaurant and expect to be (2) a main / an overnight / a strong success, but on the other hand, she thought she stood a (3) fair / formidable / major chance of success.

Grace certainly never imagined all the (4) daunting / strong / total challenges she would face, especially staff management and marketing. The problem was that her (5) burning / formidable / primary motivation had always been to cook great food rather than to make money – and, as a result, her first restaurant was an extremely (6) costly / poor / strong failure. For a while, it looked as if Grace would never fulfil her (7) daunting / huge / lifelong ambition, but then she was given a (8) complete / primary / second chance when a group of investors offered to go into business with her. Fortunately, they knew a lot more about management and marketing, allowing Grace to focus on the food. Second time round, Grace's Place has been a (9) burning / resounding / strong success.

