

PIECE OF NEWS

- 1.- Madrid. A new report says that more students are suffering. Some teenagers receive mean messages or hurtful comments online.
- 2.- Tenerife. Police arrested a 42-year-old man who pretended to be a 15-year-old boy online. He talked to children in games and private chats.
- 3.- Sevilla. A new school campaign warns students about the danger of sending private photos. Some images were shared without permission, causing emotional harm.
- 4.- Teruel. Many people received fake emails from "banks" asking for passwords. These emails try to steal personal information.
- 5.- Bilbao. Criminals are using fake phone numbers that look official. They call people and ask for personal or bank information.
- 6.- Gran Canaria. A study shows that many young people use their phones too much. Some check their phones more than 100 times a day. This causes tiredness and low school performance.
- 7.- Zaragoza. A new virus is spreading through free downloads. When installed, it steals information and slows down devices.

RISKS OF THE INTERNET

- Phishing ●
- Sexting ●
- Malwares ●
- Spoofing ●
- Cyberaddiction ●
- Grooming ●
- Cyberbullying ●

RISKS OF THE INTERNET

Don't protect your devices ●

- A risky digital habit in which people share too much information online, too freely, without thinking about long-term consequences, making themselves vulnerable to exploitation.

Oversharing (sobrexposición) ●

- A risky digital habit in which people fail to use security measures like passwords, updates, or antivirus, making their devices vulnerable to attacks, data theft, or harmful software.

Oversharenting (share+parenting) ●

- A risky digital habit in which parents share too much about their children online.

RISKS OF THE INTERNET AND SAFETY MEASURES

1.- Madrid. A new report says that more students are suffering. Some teenagers receive mean messages or hurtful comments online.

2.- Tenerife. Police arrested a 42-year-old man who pretended to be a 15-year-old boy online. He talked to children in games and private chats.

3.- Sevilla. A new school campaign warns students about the danger of sending private photos. Some images were shared without permission, causing emotional harm.

4.- Teruel. Many people received fake emails from "banks" asking for passwords. These emails try to steal personal information.

5.- Bilbao. Criminals are using fake phone numbers that look official. They call people and ask for personal or bank information.

6.- Gran Canaria. A study shows that many young people use their phones too much. Some check their phones more than 100 times a day. This causes tiredness and low school performance.

7.- Zaragoza. A new virus is spreading through free downloads. When installed, it steals information and slows down devices.

Teachers and police say students should tell an adult, block the bully, and save evidence.

Teachers remind students to never send intimate photos, because nothing online is 100% private.

Police say to hang up, and then call the real number of the institution to check.

Banks say they never ask for passwords by email. People should not click strange links and check the sender.

Experts say students must not talk to strangers, not share personal information, and tell a trusted adult if something feels strange.

Experts say to download only from official websites, update antivirus, and avoid unknown files.

Psychologists recommend screen-free time, limits on apps, and activities without devices.