Reading Passage: Eating in the UK and Ukraine

When people think of British food, they usually think of Fish and Chips. However, British people eat many different things. Food in the UK is quite different from food in Ukraine, especially the times when people eat their main meals.

Breakfast

Most British people eat a quick breakfast like cereal or toast because they are in a hurry. In Ukraine, breakfast can be similar, but many people prefer hot dishes like kasha or syrnyky. At the weekend, British families might have a "Full English Breakfast" with eggs, sausages, and beans. This is much heavier than a typical Ukrainian morning meal!

Lunch

In the UK, lunch is usually a light, cold meal eaten around 1:00 pm. Many children take a packed lunch to school containing a sandwich, crisps, and fruit. This is very different from Ukraine, where lunch is often the main meal of the day and usually includes a hot bowl of borscht or soup.

Dinner

For British people, dinner is the biggest meal and is eaten in the evening between 6:00 pm and 7:00 pm. A traditional choice is the "Sunday Roast" with meat, potatoes, and gravy. In Ukraine, the evening meal is often lighter because people have already had a large meal at lunchtime.

Snacks and Tea

British people are famous for drinking tea with milk and a biscuit. In Ukraine, tea is also very popular, but it is usually enjoyed with lemon or honey instead of milk. Both cultures love to have a sweet treat with their tea!
