Have you ever been outside in a storm at night? I have, and it is a memory I will never forget. One evening, the sky became dark, and the wind started to blow very strongly. Soon, there were big waves near the sea, and they made loud sounds. The wind made strange sounds, and everything felt scary but exciting. I tried to stay awake because I wanted to hear and see everything around me. The wild trees moved and shook in the storm, and their shadows looked very big. I felt afraid, but I did not cry. My friend was with me and stayed calm. He tossed a warm jacket to me so I could feel better. We talked quietly and helped each other. We did not run away. We walked bravely, step by step, and went home safely together. After that night, I felt proud and much stronger.
