Read the email and choose the correct answer: A or B.

Who does the housework in your family, Ivan? In my family we all help. My mum usually does the cooking at the weekend, and she always cooks a special lunch on Sundays. She's a very good cook. My dad does the cooking on other days of the week. We all tidy our bedrooms and make our beds, but I don't like it! We do the shopping at the supermarket near our house, and I always help with that. I usually lay the table. My sister Sophie clears it and loads the dishwasher, but she doesn't unload it – that's my job. But I don't do the dusting – that's Sophie's job! Housework is boring, but I always listen to music. Then time goes quickly!

They left from Miami, Florida, on June 1, 1937. They stopped in South America, Africa, India, South-East Asia and New Guinea. They only needed to fly across the Pacific Ocean to get back to the USA. Read the blog post by Rob. Then complete sentences 1-5 with one word in the blog.

Hi, my name is Ross. One of my favourite lessons at school is cooking. We learn how to prepare lots of delicious meals, and the teacher gives us information about food, too. We learn about food from different countries – where it grows and how much it costs. We learn how to prepare different kinds of food, and we also learn about healthy food, for example fruit and vegetables and unhealthy food, like cakes and biscuits!

I think it's very important to learn how to cook well, so that we can make good meals. Fresh food tastes good and you feel good after you eat it.

My cousin Sam lives in Scotland, and he's learning how to make haggis in his cooking class. The problem is that he prefers chips and pizzas!

Example:

0 Ross's favourite lesson is cooking.

2 The students learn about _____ that isn't from their country.

Read the article about good friends. Are sentences 1–5 True or False?

If there is not enough information to answer True or False, choose Not given.

Emily is lucky. Her best friend is also her twin sister, Amy. They're both 15 and in the same year at school. Although they are sisters and best friends, they are very different. Emily is clever and a bit serious and she always does well in exams. Amy is sporty, she's in the hockey and volleyball teams, she's really friendly and a bit noisy. Emily wants to go to university and study English but Amy wants to be a hockey player. She doesn't like school except for sports and drama.

So what do they have in common? Well, they listen to each other and tell each other all their secrets. They won't tell anyone else, including their parents. They don't argue very often, only when Amy makes a lot of noise and Emily's doing her homework. Then Emily sometimes shouts at Amy. They also look the same, so when it's boring at school Amy says she's Emily and Emily says she's Amy. It's really funny. The teachers at school get really angry because they don't know if it's Emily or Amy doing the homework or playing hockey! Only their parents can tell the difference.

0 Amy is Emily's mum.

Read the article about mobile phones. For questions 1–5, choose the best answer, A, B or C.

The story of the mobile phone

In the 1950s a telephone company in Sweden made a mobile car phone, but it wasn't until 1973 that an American scientist first used a mobile. These early phones were big and expensive: around £3000! Only business people had them and they were only for calls within the city.

By the 1990s mobiles were smaller and cheaper. In 1992 Neil Papworth sent the first text message to the director of Vodafone, but it wasn't until 1994 that SMS messages became popular.

By 2000 customers in Japan were able to take photos with their phones and send them to their friends. It was very popular and so in 2001 the big phone companies started to sell camera phones in Europe. Then smartphones arrived, so people were able to connect to the Internet, send photos and emails and even download music and films.

The newest phones are watches. You wear them on your wrist, so they're more difficult to lose or break.

Today the mobile phone is so popular that almost everyone has got one.
