Dear Rudy
I had an interview in London yesterday. It was a healthrow one of four airports near London. I decided to take the train. The healthrow gates, it's not good, not to save money but because it's better than the bus. I arrived at 10am, waited ten minutes for the train and after a 10-minute journey was in London.
The company's office is five minutes from Paddington station, so I was soon at AGC Computers.
My interview was with Nick Kane, the Director, but as I walked through the door, guys who I saw! Tim Buckle, an old friend. His wife, Gina First, knew my sister. We had a chat and then went to the bar.
I felt nervous before I walked into the room. I only had three hours sleep on Monday night but he was so pleasant my worries disappeared immediately and I felt comfortable.
And... I got the job! The money is the same as I earn now but I get the chance to see the world. I'm going to Tim's house for dinner tonight. He's still the same... tall and thin but now his hair is grey. We have lots to talk about. He and Gina have got three boys and a girl, four kids, and we've got our new baby!
See you.
