

INVERTED CONDITIONAL

Match the sentence halves so that they make sense.

Should it rain tomorrow,

what power would you like to have?

Had she listened to my advice,

we wouldn't have got lost in the woods.

Were you a superhero,

we'd have an epic snowball fight!

Had we had taken a map,

we'll have a cozy film night with some popcorn!

Should you want to save some money,

she wouldn't have been stressing out during her driving test.

Were it to snow tonight,

you'll have to control your weekend expenses.