Exercise 1: Reading.

Your Future Starts Today

Many teenagers think success is something far away. But the truth is that success begins with small decisions. Every action you take today will shape your tomorrow. You are building your future right now.

Sometimes you will feel afraid to speak or try. You might think others shine more than you. However, every great person once felt insecure. They decided to start anyway.

You are going to face challenges in school. You will study hard and maybe sweat during exams. But effort creates strength and confidence. Nothing valuable comes without discipline.

There will be moments when you want to stop. You may think about giving up. That is exactly when you must stand strong. Strength grows in difficult times.

You are going to seek opportunities everywhere. You will learn new skills and share your talents. You might fail, but failure teaches wisdom. Each mistake helps you improve.

Your dreams will not shrink if you protect them. They will shine brighter when you believe in yourself. Surround yourself with people who support you. Stay focused on your goals.

In the future, you will choose your profession. You are going to decide who you want to become. Education will open many doors. Preparation creates freedom.

Remember this: your life will reflect your effort. If you strive daily, you will succeed. The world needs your ideas and energy. Start today — your future is waiting.
