The City of the Future

Pinky and Chotu walked into a strange place. In front of them stood a massive steel building with three tall doors. The building was made of steel and old junk from factories. Broken machines and electronic parts were everywhere.

They entered the blue door and found a vast, empty land. The place was completely deserted. There were no people and no greenery at all. The ground was dry and grey.

Suddenly, a giant monster appeared. It was made of junk and electronic waste. The monster said that humans had created it by throwing away too much rubbish and cutting down trees.

The children felt strong emotions of fear and shame. They realised that protecting nature was important for the future.
