

Drag and match.

King

judges and magistrates

Senate and congress

president and ministers

The crown

implements the new laws; the president is the representative of it.

The general court

decides when someone breaks the laws and the consequences.

The judiciary

is the head of the Spanish state and the military.

The government

think of new laws and choose the president.