The Seasons

In lots of countries, there are four seasons in a year: spring, summer, fall, and winter.

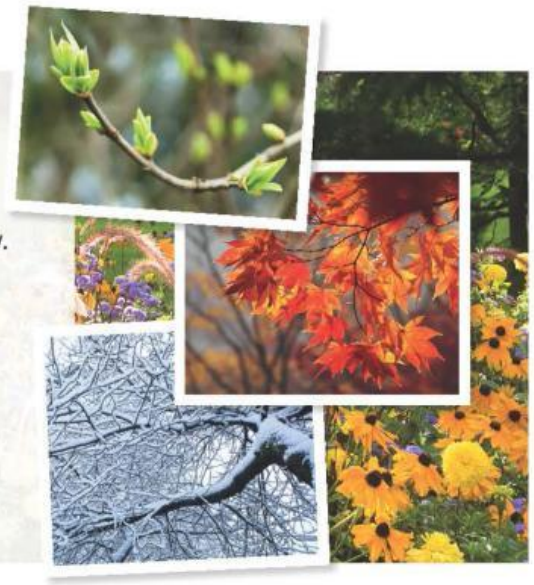

In spring, it gets warmer and it rains. This helps plants to grow.

Summer comes after spring. It's hot. Fruit and flowers grow.

Then, it's fall. It gets colder. Leaves turn red and orange and fall to the ground.

Winter comes after fall. It's usually colder than the other seasons, and it snows sometimes. Lots of trees don't have leaves in winter.

Then it all starts again!
