Read the following passage and choose the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

TRAVELING ALONE FOR THE FIRST TIME

1. Traveling alone for the first time is a significant milestone in anyone's life. It is a unique mixture of excitement and fear. On one hand, you have the total freedom to do whatever you want, whenever you want. On the other hand, it is natural to feel anxious about the unknown. Many beginners worry about getting lost, losing their money, or feeling lonely in a strange place. However, seasoned travelers know that once the journey begins, these fears usually fade away quickly.
2. Proper preparation is the key to a successful solo trip. Before you leave, you should research your destination carefully to understand the local customs and safety rules. Booking your accommodation for the first few nights in advance can also reduce stress significantly. Furthermore, learning how to pack smart is essential for a smooth trip. Since you have to carry your own luggage everywhere, from train stations to hostel stairs, you should only bring what is truly necessary. A heavy bag can quickly become a burden.
3. One common myth about solo travel is that you will be completely isolated. In reality, traveling alone makes you more approachable to others. You are likely to meet fellow travelers in hostels, cafes, or on walking tours. Additionally, you will interact more with local people than you would in a group. Residents are often happy to share their culture; they can recommend the best local food or hidden spots that are not in guidebooks. These interactions can lead to wonderful friendships.
4. Finally, the most valuable part of the trip is personal growth. Traveling solo forces you to make your own decisions and solve problems without relying on others. You might miss a train or struggle with a language barrier, but overcoming these challenges builds immense confidence. This experience teaches you to trust your instincts. When you return home, you will feel more independent and ready to face the world.

Read the following passage and choose the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

PROTECTING ENDANGERED LANGUAGES

1. Across the world, thousands of languages are in danger of falling silent. [I] Experts estimate that nearly half of the 7,000 languages spoken today could disappear by the end of this century. This is a serious issue because language is more than just a tool for daily communication. It is the heart of a culture, carrying history, songs, and traditional knowledge that have been passed down for generations. [II] Therefore, preserving these languages is vital for maintaining human diversity and understanding our past.

2. There are several reasons why languages are dying out. [III] The most common cause is the pressure to speak global languages like English, Mandarin, or Spanish. To get better jobs and education, people often shift to these widely used languages. Consequently, parents may stop teaching their native tongues to their children. [IV] When young people lose interest in their heritage language, they quickly forget the vocabulary and grammar rules. Once a generation stops speaking a language completely, it becomes very difficult to bring it back to life.

3. Fortunately, there are efforts to save these endangered languages. Technology plays a huge role in this fight. Linguists are using digital tools to record elders speaking and singing to create permanent archives. [III] Apps and websites are also being created to help new learners practice their heritage languages on their phones. Unless communities and governments work together to support these programs, these unique voices will vanish forever. Money and policies are needed to keep these projects running.

4. Education is another powerful tool. Some schools now offer classes in local languages alongside national ones. This helps children feel proud of their identity and encourages them to use their mother tongue at home. While the challenge is great, the desire to protect our shared human heritage is growing stronger. With the right tools and commitment, we can ensure that future generations will still hear the diverse sounds of our world.

Question 31. The word vital in paragraph 1 mostly means _____.

- A. urgent B. promising C. perfect D. important

Question 32. According to paragraph 1, why is language considered more than just a communication tool?

- A. It allows experts to estimate the number of spoken languages.
B. It is probably the only way to maintain human diversity in the future.
C. It helps people communicate with others from different countries.
D. It holds the history, songs, and traditional knowledge of a culture.

Question 33. The word they in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

- A. young people B. parents
C. native tongues D. grammar rules

Question 34. Which of the following best summarises paragraph 2?

- A. The main reason for the widespread use of global languages is that they offer people better education and career prospects.
B. Young people are losing interest in their native tongues because these languages are seen as barriers to global opportunities.
C. The preference for global languages has made younger generations unwilling to maintain their native tongues.
D. Native languages are disappearing because people switch to global languages and stop passing on their native ones.

Question 35. Which of the following is NOT stated as a solution to save endangered languages in paragraph 3?

- A. Creating apps and websites for language learners.
B. Cooperation between communities and governments.
C. Using digital tools to record elders speaking.
D. Paying elders to teach native languages in schools.

Question 36. The word permanent in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

- A. meaningless B. incomplete C. temporary D. original

Question 37. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 3?

- A. Without cooperation between communities and governments, these languages will disappear permanently.
- B. These languages have vanished because communities and governments failed to support these programs.
- C. If these native languages continue to survive, communities and governments will work together to support them.
- D. The cooperation of communities allows governments to ensure the survival of these unique languages.

Question 38. Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

- A. Parents stop teaching native languages primarily because they no longer value their traditional culture.
- B. Apps and websites have proven to be more effective than traditional classes for saving languages.
- C. Technology alone is not enough to save endangered languages without human effort and policy.
- D. Global languages are becoming popular because their vocabulary and grammar rules are easy to learn.

Question 39. Where in the passage does the following sentence best fit?

When a language dies, this unique wealth of information disappears along with it.

- A. [I] B. [IV] C. [II] D. [III]

Question 40. Which of the following best summarises the passage?

- A. Digital archives and bilingual education are being used to help young people reconnect with their dying heritage languages.
- B. Many languages are disappearing due to global pressures, but technology and education offer hope for their preservation.
- C. The rapid disappearance of endangered languages requires joint efforts to ensure they remain competitive with global ones.
- D. Although social pressures threaten native languages, education and the desire to preserve human heritage can ensure their survival.
