

How to find your style

It can be difficult to find the right look for you. Adam Fox, an _____ on fashion and style, offers some advice

“The first thing is to know your own body. Most people aren't an _____ size, so not every style suits them. Choose clothes that fit your shape. Don't let clever advertising _____ persuade you to buy something that isn't right for you. If you _____ buying something different, make sure you try it on and see if it looks good. Choose your mix of colours carefully. Also, remember that some people look better in plain colours, and some people look better in _____. Finally, choose your _____, like bags, watches and rings, carefully – they can make a big difference to the way you look.”
