

INFORMAL WRITING

This is a worksheet for you to:

- Practice TO vs FOR (purpose, reason, benefit, duration, etc.)
- Produce useful sentences for an informal email.
- Prepare content you can directly reuse in the final writing task.

A. Rewrite the ideas using TO or FOR so they sound natural in an email.

1. I want more information because I plan my holiday. I'm writing _____
2. Can you check the price? (purpose) Can you check the price _____?
3. I need this information because of the cost. I need this information _____
4. I want to go there because I experience something different. I'd love to go there _____
5. Can you ask about accommodation? (purpose) Can you ask about accommodation _____?
6. I'm interested in this holiday because it helps the community. I'm interested in this holiday _____
7. How long do we stay? (duration) How long are we staying _____?
8. I'm saving money because of this trip. I'm saving money _____

B. Write 3-5 original sentences you can reuse in the final email.

1. Ask about price _____
2. Ask about accommodation _____
3. Express a reason for going _____
4. Ask about activities _____
5. Mention duration _____

You must include:

- at least 2 sentences with TO
- at least 2 sentences with FOR

C. Complete these sentences with your own ideas and then put them in a logical order to write an e-mail:

First, can you find out how much it costs _____ (purpose)? I don't mind paying more if it's good _____ (benefit with FOR).

Another thing — I'd like to go _____ (TO + verb: express purpose/experience) something different from a typical holiday.

I'm writing _____ (TO + verb: ask for info) about a few things.

Finally, can you ask what kind of work we will do? I'm not very good _____ (FOR + -ing) crafts.

Thanks a lot for your email! I'd love to go — it sounds like a great opportunity _____ (reason using FOR + -ing).
