Buying a camera

Alex had recently taken up photography as a hobby. He did some research and first wanted to buy a DSLR but then changed his mind and opted to buy a mirrorless camera instead. He wanted to buy the camera from a nearby shop but his older brother, Ken advised him to get it online. Ken, who was also into photography, said he could get a better deal online. Alex's friend, Hassan too said the same.

Alex looked through a few online shopping platforms such as Lelong, Lazada and Shopee. He jotted down which shopping platform gave the best deals. After researching for more than an hour, Alex decided to get the camera from Shopee. He chose to buy from Shopee because the price was the most reasonable. Apart from that, the seller would be giving a complimentary camera bag. The seller at the other shopping platform would be giving a tripod but Alex already had it.

The camera's original price was RM622. However, Alex managed to get the camera at only RM599 since the shopping platform was having its monthly sale. On top of that, Alex managed to get free delivery as he had some coupons. If not, he would have had to pay RM9.00 for the delivery. Alex tried using his debit card to pay for the camera but there was a problem with his card, He then asked Ken if could use his credit card. Ken happily agreed. Alex paid him back the next day.

Alex placed the order for the camera on 5 March. He was informed that he would get the camera on 15 March. The camera arrived on 17 March. Alex checked his camera thoroughly and was glad that it was in good condition and met all his expectations.

A Suitable Hobby

Dina was a studious girl. However, she had no hobbies. Her mother suggested she take up a hobby to help her relax and also have other interest.

Dina listened to her mother's advice. Kumari said she enjoyed collecting stamps. Dina decided to try it out. However, she did not enjoy it very much.

One day, Dina saw a group of girls playing netball on the field. She asked them if she could join them. They gladly accepted her. Dina played a few games. On top of that, she hurt herself a few times. She decided then that playing netball was not for her.

Dina's mother then suggested she take up playing the piano. Dina thought it was a good idea. Once, her aunt had taught her how to play a simple song on the piano and she played it well. Dina asked her mother to look for a piano teacher for her. Her mother managed to find a piano teacher in the neighbourhood. Her home was a ten-minute walk from Dina's house.

Mrs Lim was very nice and patient. She first taught Dina music theory. After that, she taught her how to play the piano. Dina loved her piano lessons very much. Dina felt pleased and relaxed when she went for her piano lessons.
