(LESSON 3,4 - PAGES 6, 7)

TASK 1. READ THE TEST AND CHOOSE TRUE/ FALSE.

Balloon races

How does a balloon race work?

The balloons have got a gas called helium inside them. Helium is lighter than air. Each balloon usually rises about eight kilometres and then bursts, but some travel a long way and land in other countries.

What are the rules for balloon races?

- The balloons must be made of latex and the labels must be made of paper.
- Latex and paper are organic, so they will degrade naturally.
- The balloons shouldn't have the string attached when they're released.
- You mustn't tie the balloons together.
- You mustn't let go of more than 5,000 balloons at the same time.

FUN FACT

In 2007, a four-year-old girl released a balloon in Manchester, England. A boy found the balloon six weeks later. The boy lived in China, 9,500 km away!
