Đề TA12. CK2.10 Luyện THPT

Read the following announcement and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the option that best fits each of the numbered blanks.

Global Education and Innovation Fair 2026

Scheduled to take place from 10th to 14th September at the Exhibition Hall in Da Nang, the Global Education and Innovation Fair 2026 will welcome many organizations (1) _____ focus on advanced learning technologies, international exchange programs, and digital education solutions. In addition, a great (2) _____ of Vietnam's most outstanding universities and training centres will participate in the event.

Attendees will have access to a broad variety of educational resources, interactive software, and virtual learning platforms aimed at improving teaching effectiveness. The fair will also include seminars and presentations (3) _____ by experienced educators and technology specialists, allowing visitors to gain (4) _____ into modern teaching methods.

This event creates valuable opportunities for (5) _____, school administrators, and learners to exchange ideas and (6) _____ research projects on future learning models. Be sure to attend this inspiring educational event!

Question 1.	A. whose	B. where	C. whom	D. which
Question 2.	A. level	B. volume	C. amount	D. number
Question 3.	A. conducting	B. be conducting	C. have conducted	D. conducted
Question 4.	A. knowledge	B. insight	C. awareness	D. understanding
Question 5.	A. education	B. educating	C. educators	D. educational
Question 6.	A. carry out	B. bring in	C. hold up	D. take off

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the option that best fits each of the numbered blanks.

Green Living: A Sustainable Approach to Modern Life

Green living, a concept once limited to environmental activists and sustainability experts, is now becoming a common way of life for many people. This lifestyle, which promotes actions that reduce environmental harm and conserve resources, (7) _____. It includes practices such as minimizing energy consumption, using eco-friendly products, and managing waste effectively.

Individuals around the world have started to adopt this approach, influenced by environmental concerns and climate change. Many of them follow advice from organizations (8) _____. Governments also play a key role by supporting public transport systems, encouraging recycling, and promoting renewable energy. (9) _____. In some countries, eco-friendly policies have even been written into national development plans.

The shift to green living is also evident in everyday decisions. People are finding small but effective ways to reduce their carbon footprint. (10) _____. Many businesses have also responded to this demand by offering more sustainable products and packaging options. Though these actions might seem minor, they contribute to a much larger environmental impact when adopted widely.

Green living also involves long-term commitment. Adopted to encourage change and reduce waste, (11) _____. With consistent effort, communities can create a cleaner, more sustainable future. Educating younger generations about environmental responsibility is also essential to ensure lasting impact.

Question 7.

A. having been integrated into daily routines across the globe through sustainable means

B. that has encouraged widespread changes in energy use and consumption habits

C. of which environmentally conscious behaviors have been adopted by entire communities

LIVEWORKSHEETS

D. has been increasingly embraced as sustainable living practices become more common

Question 8.

A. of which people rely on to gain advice for improving their environmental habits

B. whose guidance helps people reduce waste, save energy, and live more sustainably

C. enormously contribute to educating the public about environmental conservation

D. help individuals learn how to make greener lifestyle choices in their daily routines

Question 9.

A. These combined efforts are helping to shift communities toward a greener future.

B. Further research is needed to fully understand the long-term impact of green living.

C. Some individuals are still hesitant to make environmentally friendly choices due to financial constraints.

D. These initiatives have led to a rise in the use of electric vehicles and public transit.

Question 10.

A. By focusing only on government policies, they allow individual efforts to remain minimal and passive

B. They use simple habits like carrying reusable bags and biking, helping reduce their carbon footprint

C. Their decisions often depend on financial incentives, rather than concern for the environment

D. Without making small changes in daily life, individuals can still reduce their carbon emissions effectively

Question 11.

A. these habits contribute to environmental preservation and lead to long-term benefits

B. individuals are increasingly implementing sustainability practices

C. the spread of green practices, supported by individuals and institutions alike, is occurring globally

D. communities which apply green initiatives are driving a real change

Read the passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions.

The story of fast fashion is, in many ways, the story of modern desire—an industry built upon the promise of endless novelty, accessibility, and reinvention. Garments appear in shops and online feeds with astonishing speed, inviting consumers to participate in cycles of constant renewal. Each purchase feels fleeting and harmless, a small indulgence folded neatly into everyday life. [I] Yet the simplicity of buying conceals a far more complicated reality, one that extends far beyond the moment of consumption.

Fast fashion embodies a paradox. Created to satisfy the appetite for change, its products often outlast the trends they were designed to follow. [II] Clothes intended for brief use accumulate in landfills, wardrobes, and second-hand markets, persisting long after their cultural relevance has faded. Manufactured from synthetic materials that resist decomposition, they remain suspended between utility and waste. Meanwhile, the very industry that promises self-expression frequently relies upon uniformity—mass-producing individuality on a global scale. What is marketed as empowerment through choice becomes, ironically, a mechanism of environmental strain and social exploitation.

To speak of fast fashion is to speak of distance: between producer and consumer, between appearance and reality, between affordability and its hidden price. Behind the polished storefronts and carefully curated advertisements lies a network of extraction, labour, and disposal that remains largely invisible to those who benefit from it. [III] Each cheaply made garment carries traces of exhausted resources, underpaid workers, and polluted waterways. What appears economically efficient in the short term generates costs dispersed across ecosystems and communities, costs rarely reflected on a price tag.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

The environmental crisis associated with fast fashion is therefore not merely the result of excessive clothing production but evidence of a deeper cultural condition: the elevation of disposability into a virtue. [IV] Proposed remedies—recycling initiatives, sustainable fabrics, ethical certifications—address part of the problem, yet they cannot fully succeed without confronting the mindset that equates constant consumption with progress. As long as novelty remains inseparable from value, fast fashion will persist as more than an industry. It will remain a symbol of a civilisation caught between the desire for self-expression and the consequences of excess: endlessly changing in appearance, yet repeating the same destructive patterns beneath the surface.

Question 12. According to paragraph 1, fast fashion mainly encourages consumers to _____.

A. reject modern ideals of novelty and reinvention

B. purchase clothing only when older garments become unusable

C. participate continuously in changing trends and consumption cycles

D. value durability over accessibility and affordability

Question 13. Which of the following best summarises paragraph 2?

A. The popularity of fast fashion can primarily be explained by consumers' growing concern for sustainability and ethical production.

B. Although fast fashion claims to encourage individuality, it simultaneously creates environmental damage and mass-produced conformity.

C. Synthetic fabrics have allowed the fashion industry to provide people with cheaper and more durable forms of self-expression.

D. The expansion of second-hand markets has significantly reduced the environmental consequences associated with fast fashion.

Question 14. According to paragraph 2, which of the following is NOT mentioned as a consequence of fast fashion?

A. polluted waterways B. underpaid labour

C. exhausted natural resources D. rising prices of garments

Question 15. The word dispersed in paragraph 3 mostly means _____.

A. accumulated beyond recognition B. concealed beneath artificial layers

C. transformed into visible damage D. distributed across different places

Question 16. The word they in paragraph 4 refers to _____.

A. sustainable fabrics B. recycling initiatives C. ethical certifications D. proposed remedies

Question 17. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 4?

A. The fashion industry survives because novelty itself has become economically more valuable than self-expression.

B. Fast fashion will continue to exist only if consumers no longer associate innovation with social importance.

C. Unless the fashion industry separates itself from cultural values, consumer demand for novelty will eventually disappear.

D. The persistence of fast fashion depends largely on society's tendency to connect constant newness with worth.

Question 18. Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?

LIVEWORKSHEETS

A. Consumers are generally unaware of the environmental and social systems supporting cheap clothing production.

B. Most second-hand clothing markets successfully prevent garments from ending up in landfills.

C. The fashion industry has already begun replacing synthetic materials with fully biodegradable alternatives.

D. Ethical certifications have completely failed to influence consumer behaviour in modern fashion markets.

Question 19. What does the passage suggest about the fashion industry's promise of self-expression?

A. It is partly misleading because individuality is mass-produced within highly standardised systems.

B. It has become less influential as consumers increasingly prioritise practicality over appearance.

C. It genuinely enables consumers to develop highly original identities independent of social influence.

D. It depends largely on consumers rejecting globally popular fashion trends and brands.

Question 20. Where in the passage does the following sentence best fit?

What appears temporary in culture often becomes enduring in material form.

A. [III] B. [I] C. [II] D. [IV]

Question 21. Which of the following best summarises the passage?

A. Fast fashion has improved global access to affordable clothing despite creating certain unavoidable environmental challenges.

B. Fast fashion is a cultural and environmental paradox that reflects deeper societal values centred on disposability and endless consumption.

C. The primary problem facing the fashion industry today is the increasing dependence on synthetic materials that resist decomposition.

D. Environmental reforms within the fashion industry will succeed once consumers are provided with more sustainable purchasing options.

Mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best arrangement of utterances or sentences to make a cohesive and coherent exchange or text in each of the following questions.

Question 22.

a. David: Go along this street and turn left at the second crossroads. The museum is next to the supermarket.

b. Emma: Thank you very much for your help.

c. Emma: Excuse me, could you tell me the way to the city museum?

A. c-a-b B. a-c-b C. c-b-a D. b-c-a Question 23.

a. Lisa: I usually collect information from books, academic journals and reliable websites. How about you?

b. Kevin: Absolutely! Careful preparation is the key to successful research.

c. Lisa: That sounds effective. Interviewing experts can provide very reliable information.

d. Kevin: Your project looks very impressive. How do you usually carry out your research?

e. Kevin: I often interview specialists and analyse survey data before writing my reports.

A. e-c-b-a-d B. a-d-c-e-b C. d-c-a-b-e D. d-a-e-c-b

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Question 24. Dear Sir or Madam,

a. Under these circumstances, I believe I am entitled to either a replacement of the product or a complete refund in accordance with your company's warranty policy.

b. I would appreciate it if this matter could be dealt with promptly, as the faulty device has seriously disrupted my work schedule.

c. I am writing to express my dissatisfaction with a printer that I ordered from your online store and received three days ago.

d. Not only did the printer fail to connect properly to my computer, but it also repeatedly displayed error messages during operation.

e. Furthermore, despite being advertised as a brand-new product, the package appeared to have been previously opened upon delivery.

Yours faithfully,

Andrew Wilson

A. e-c-a-d-b B. c-d-e-a-b C. e-a-c-d-b D. c-d-e-b-a Question 25.

a. As a consequence, I have become much more aware of how difficult it is to work in customer service and learned to be more patient with employees.

b. I was required to stand for nearly eight hours a day, arrange products on shelves, and deal with demanding customers during the holiday season.

c. Working part-time at a supermarket last summer was a tiring but valuable experience for me.

d. Before taking the job, I had never imagined that retail work could be so stressful and exhausting.

e. By the end of each shift, I was completely worn out and sometimes too tired even to eat dinner.

A. c-b-a-d-e B. d-c-e-b-a C. c-b-e-d-a D. e-a-c-b-d

Question 26.

a. Consequently, those who engage in continuous learning are generally more capable of adapting to professional challenges and maintaining long-term career stability in an increasingly competitive world.

b. Such changes have gradually reshaped the traditional perception of education, which is now widely regarded as a lifelong process rather than a stage confined to early adulthood.

c. In response to these evolving demands, educational institutions and employers have expanded access to distance-learning programs, vocational training courses, and professional development opportunities.

d. The rapid pace of technological innovation and the constant transformation of labour markets have made the regular acquisition of new knowledge and skills more essential than ever before.

e. Over the past few decades, lifelong learning has become an increasingly important concept in many societies, particularly in relation to economic development and employability.

A. e-d-c-b-a B. e-b-d-c-a C. e-c-d-a-b D. d-e-c-b-a

Read the following leaflet and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the option that best fits each of the numbered blanks.

How to Stay Mentally Healthy

Looking after your mental health is just as important as taking care of your body. If you want to feel happier and more balanced in daily life, the following suggestions may help.

• Create a daily routine and try to stick (27) _____ it even during busy periods.

• Record your feelings in a notebook (28) _____ on a mobile app.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

• Do relaxing activities such as taking (29) _____ or practising yoga can reduce stress levels.
• Spend time with friends and (30) _____ relatives who make you feel supported and understood.
• Try (31) _____ confidence in yourself by completing small goals step by step.
• Finally, keeping a positive attitude can have a considerable (32) _____ on your emotional wellbeing in the long run.

Question 27. A. at B. on C. with D. to Question 28. A. or B. so C. but D. nor

Question 29.

A. meditation sessions quiet B. quiet sessions meditation
C. meditation quiet sessions D. quiet meditation sessions

Question 30. A. the others B. other C. others D. another

Question 31. A. growing B. building C. forming D. creating Question 32. A. outcome B. bearing C. consequence D. impression

Read the passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the best answer to each of the following questions.

Work today is more than just a means of earning a living—it defines identity, influences lifestyle, and shapes social roles. Across the globe, people are employed in a wide range of fields, from hands-on jobs in construction and healthcare to office-based careers in law, finance, or marketing. The modern workplace is diverse, constantly changing, and often unpredictable.

One major shift has been the decline of the traditional nine-to-five model. Many people now work remotely, part-time, or on a freelance basis, especially in creative and tech-related industries. The rise of digital communication has made flexible work more accessible, but it has also blurred the boundaries between professional and personal life. As a result, discussions around work-life balance, time management, and employee well-being have become louder and more widespread.

Employers today are seeking more than just formal qualifications. While degrees remain valuable, companies increasingly value practical experience, critical thinking, and emotional intelligence. Skills such as collaboration, adaptability, and the ability to learn quickly are considered essential in many sectors. As the job market evolves, workers are encouraged to build their diverse skill set, including both technical and interpersonal abilities, to stay competitive.

Certain industries are growing rapidly, including renewable energy, healthcare, and digital services, while others—like traditional retail and manufacturing—are shrinking due to automation and outsourcing. This shift has led to a strong focus on lifelong learning, as many people are required to retrain or upskill throughout their careers. Governments, educational institutions, and companies are working to support this transition by offering training programs and encouraging professional development.

Young people entering the workforce today face both exciting opportunities and new challenges. While they can explore a broader range of careers than previous generations, they must also deal with temporary contracts, high competition, and economic uncertainty. At the same time, many seek meaningful work, a positive environment, and a balance between their jobs and personal values. In this fast-changing world of work, success depends on staying informed, adaptable, and committed to continuous learning.

Question 33. The word blurred in paragraph 2 is closest in meaning to _____.

A. erased B. revealed C. separated D. recovered

Question 34. The word their in paragraph 3 refers to _____.

A. sectors B. employers C. workers D. companies

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Question 35. According to paragraph 3, which of the following is NOT something employers are now looking for?

A. ability to work well with others B. advanced degrees in academic fields

C. practical experience and soft skills D. capacity to think critically and adapt Question 36. The word shrinking in paragraph 4 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. expanding B. narrowing C. vanishing D. weakening

Question 37. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

A. Most people still prefer traditional employment structures and avoid freelance or contract-based jobs.

B. Remote work has improved flexibility, but it can also increase stress and blur personal boundaries.

C. The decline in retail and manufacturing has caused lifelong learning to become less relevant today.

D. Employers value university qualifications far more than soft skills or hands-on experience in applicants.

Question 38. Which of the following best paraphrases the sentence in paragraph 5?

A. To succeed in today's ever-changing job market, workers must remain flexible, knowledgeable, and focused on personal development.

B. In the modern workforce, the key to success lies in controlling personal emotions and maintaining stability.

C. The modern work environment demands constant innovation, responsibility, and a commitment to developing physical endurance.

D. Achieving success in the workplace doesn't mean being proactive, open-minded, and constantly upgrading one's skills.

Question 39. In which paragraph does the writer mention increasing importance of soft skills?

A. Paragraph 2 B. Paragraph 5 C. Paragraph 4 D. Paragraph 3

Question 40. In which paragraph does the writer mention the changing structure of working arrangements?

A. Paragraph 4 B. Paragraph 5 C. Paragraph 2 D. Paragraph 3

LIVEWORKSHEETS