A = Amanda, B = Brad

- A I just read an article about problems with Megan's Law recently. It's sad how complicated these situations can sometimes get.
- B That's the law to make information about sex offenders public, (A) isn't it / doesn't it?
- A Yeah, that's the one. The thing is, when people hear about a sex offender registry, they automatically think of people who abuse children. But some of the people on these lists actually didn't do anything wrong. For example, say a 17-year-old girl sends an (B) inappropriately / inappropriate photo of herself to her 18-year-old boyfriend. Technically, she's not an adult and her boyfriend is, so he (C) could have / can be put on the list for having child pornography.
- B What? But that doesn't make any sense. The purpose of the law is to stop violence, not punish people for stupid decisions that don't hurt anyone.
- A I know, but those types of things happen today. And besides that, even if someone did do something wrong, they're more likely to commit another crime later if they can't live a normal life. The law stops them from living in certain areas, and being on the registry makes it difficult to find a job. I'm not sure if they should keep these registries at all.
- B I wouldn't go that far.

12 Which is the best combination of (A), (B), and (C)?

- ① (A) doesn't it – (B) inappropriate – (C) could have
- ② (A) doesn't it – (B) inappropriately – (C) can be
- ③ (A) isn't it – (B) inappropriate – (C) could have
- ④ (A) isn't it – (B) inappropriately – (C) can be
- ⑤ (A) isn't it – (B) inappropriate – (C) can be

13 What is Brad surprised about?

- ① The lack of public information about violent sexual offenders
- ② Older sexual offenders receiving longer sentences for their crime than younger offenders
- ③ The high frequency of sexual crimes in society
- ④ How a person can be put on a sexual offender list without hurting anyone
- ⑤ How Megan's Law was recently passed

14 What is implied when Brad says, "Well, I wouldn't go that far"?

- ① He believes some sexual offenders are wrongly convicted.
- ② He thinks Megan's Law has some merit.
- ③ He thinks ex-offenders deserve a job.
- ④ He thinks sexual offenders should be more severely punished.
- ⑤ He completely agrees with Amanda's thoughts.
