SECTION 7: ADVANCED READING COMPREHENSIVE TEXT

THE PARADOX OF THE COOPERATIVE COMMUNAL ECO-VILLAGE

In a contemporary world facing unprecedented environmental degradation, global warming, and excessive plastic waste, a group of progressive citizens decided to establish the "Green Horizon Eco-Village." The primary goal of this experimental community is to minimize individual ecological footprints by combining cutting-edge smart home technologies with highly cooperative communal living arrangements. All residential structures in the village are compact terraced cottages equipped with digital smart fridges, automatic energy-saving kettles, and advanced greywater recycling systems. The residents believe that if every household utilized smart infrastructure to automatically monitor electricity consumption, global resource demands would plummet dramatically.

However, operating an ecologically sustainable community is not without its ethical and social dilemmas. Living in close quarters means that residents must share a vast array of facilities, including communal kitchens, high-capacity industrial dishwashers, and shared electric vehicles. Recently, internal conflicts have arisen regarding individual behavior and personal responsibility. For instance, some community members have been accused of jumping the queue to use the shared rapid-charging car ports, while others frequently display a relaxed attitude toward household chores, leaving dirty dishes inside the communal dining area or neglecting to unload the washing machines.

Furthermore, a significant ethical debate has emerged regarding the village's strict rules against introducing non-recyclable materials. Last month, a resident discovered that her neighbor was secretly purchasing wrapped products from external supermarkets and dropping litter—specifically plastic packaging—into the local compost bins. This situation presented a severe moral dilemma: should the resident report her neighbor's dishonest behavior to the village council, or should she try to resolve the matter privately? Some community members argue that unless rules are strictly enforced by an official governing body, the cooperative spirit of the entire village will collapse. Others counter that spying on neighbors destroys mutual trust. As the eco-village continues to evolve, it serves as a fascinating case study demonstrating that solving environmental crises requires not only advanced technology but also deep behavioral reform and strong social cohesion.

PART A: TRUE / FALSE / DOESN'T KNOW (T / F / DS)

Directions: Read the text above carefully. Write T if the statement is True, F if the statement is False, or DS if the text Does Not Say the information.

EXAMPLE:

THE ECO-VILLAGE IS NAMED "GREEN HORIZON."

ANSWER: T

1. Every single residential house inside the Green Horizon Eco-Village is a massive, three-story detached mansion.
2. The smart fridges in the village cottages are capable of ordering groceries online automatically when supplies run low.
3. Residents share certain facilities, such as high-capacity dishwashers and electric transport vehicles.
4. Some individuals have been accused of jumping the queue at the electric vehicle charging stations.
5. The local village council has decided to expel the resident who dropped plastic litter into the compost bins.
6. The neighborhood conflict regarding plastic packaging waste was resolved completely within forty-eight hours.
7. Some members believe that mutual trust among neighbors is ruined if people spy on each other.
8. The eco-village is located in the rural countryside of southern England, far away from major urban centers.
9. The cottages are equipped with automatic energy-saving kettles to minimize power wastage.
10. The text concludes that technology alone is entirely sufficient to solve all modern environmental issues.

PART B: MULTIPLE CHOICE TEXT COMPREHENSION

Directions: Read the text carefully and select the best option (A, B, C, or D) that answers each question.

EXAMPLE:

WHAT IS THE ECO-VILLAGE TRYING TO MINIMIZE?

- A) FINANCIAL WEALTH
- B) INDIVIDUAL ECOLOGICAL FOOTPRINTS
- C) POPULATION SIZE
- D) TECHNOLOGY USE

ANSWER: B

1. Which environmental issues are explicitly mentioned in the first paragraph of the text?
 - A) Air pollution, deforesting programs, and overfishing.
 - B) Environmental degradation, global warming, and plastic waste.
 - C) Water scarcity, acid rain, and endangered wild animals.
 - D) Urban development, noise pollution, and traffic congestion.
2. What type of architectural buildings make up the village residential quarters?
 - A) Traditional country cottages with thatched roofs.
 - B) Multi-story studio flats with open balconies.
 - C) Compact terraced cottages with smart infrastructure.

D) Large wooden tipis supported by tall structural poles.

3. According to the text, what would happen if every household utilized smart infrastructure?

- A) People would stop interacting with their immediate neighbors.
- B) The total global resource demands would plummet significantly.
- C) Local governments would subsidize all household electrical appliances.
- D) Residents would have no time left to spend on cooking and cleaning.

4. What internal behavioral problem has recently occurred in the shared spaces?

- A) Residents are stealing expensive electrical equipment from the kitchens.
- B) People are speeding on the local motorways inside the eco-village.
- C) Some individuals leave dirty items behind and neglect to unload the washing machines.
- D) Community members are refusing to use electric vehicles altogether.

5. What specific moral dilemma did a resident face last month regarding her neighbor?

- A) The neighbor was caught stealing food from the communal kitchen.
- B) The neighbor was secretly keeping endangered wild animals in her backyard.
- C) The neighbor was buying wrapped products and dropping plastic waste into compost bins.
- D) The neighbor was refusing to turn down the volume of her television at night.

6. Why do some community members oppose reporting rules violations to the village council?

- A) Because the council charges heavy financial fees for processing complaints.
- B) Because they believe that spying on neighbors destroys essential mutual trust.
- C) Because they prefer to relocate to normal suburban houses instead.
- D) Because the council has no legal authority to punish dishonest behavior.

7. Which of the following words from paragraph 2 is closest in meaning to "a situation involving a difficult choice between moral options"?

- A) RESPONSIBILITY
- B) ARRANGEMENT
- C) DILEMMA
- D) INFRASTRUCTURE

8. What is the main attitude of the author toward the eco-village experiment?

- A) Completely dismissive, viewing it as a total waste of financial resources.
- B) Highly critical of the technological failures of the smart appliances.
- C) Analytical, viewing it as a fascinating case study on human behavior and ecology.
- D) Enthusiastic about the complete elimination of all human errors in the village.

9. What do residents use to boil water in an energy-efficient manner?

- A) Traditional open fire pits.
- B) Automatic energy-saving kettles.
- C) Shared solar-powered cookers.
- D) Industrial high-capacity dishwashers.

10. According to the final paragraph, what two elements are necessary to solve environmental crises?

- A) International financial funding and extensive global advertising campaigns.
- B) Highly strict legal punishments and the complete ban of all plastic items.
- C) Advanced technology combined with deep behavioral reform and social cohesion.
- D) Relocating urban citizens to nomadic reservations in remote areas.
