2 What can children do in a garden?

3 Why might some people not want to share their garden with others?

4 How are gardens different in winter and summer?

When a giant goes on holiday, children play in his garden. When he comes back he is very angry. The children are told they are not allowed to play in the garden.

1 Read the text. As you read, think about this question.
What happens to the garden when the children are not allowed to play in it?

'The Selfish Giant' from The Happy Prince and Other Tales (1888)

Oscar Wilde

The poor children had now nowhere to play. They tried to play on the road, but the road was very dusty and full of hard stones, and they did not like it. They walked round the high wall when their lessons were over, and talked about the beautiful garden inside. 'How happy we were there,' they said to each other. Then the Spring came, and all over the country there were little blossoms and little birds. Only in the garden of the Selfish Giant it was still winter. The birds did not care to sing in it as there were no children, and the trees forgot to blossom. Once a beautiful flower put its head out from under the grass, but when it saw the noticeboard it was so sorry for the children that it slipped back into the ground again, and went off to sleep. The only people who were pleased were the Snow and the Frost. 'Spring has forgotten this garden,' they cried, 'so we will live here all the year round.' The Snow covered up the grass with her great white cloak, and the Frost painted all the trees silver. Then they invited the North Wind to stay with them, and he came. 'This is a delightful spot,' he said, 'we must ask the Hail on a visit.' So the Hail came. He ran round and round the garden as fast as he could go. He was dressed in grey, and his breath was like ice.

SPEAKING

6 Choose one student to be the giant. Make two groups. One group thinks of reasons why the giant should not let the children play in the garden. Another group thinks of reasons why he should. The groups then form two lines opposite one another. As the giant walks between the lines, tell him or her your reasons.
