My Saturday at the Science Museum

Last Saturday, my family and I were at the Science Museum in the city centre. It was my brother's idea because he loves robots and space. At first, I wasn't very excited because I wanted to stay at home, but the museum was much more interesting than I expected.

There were many different exhibitions. My favourite one was about dinosaurs because the models were huge and very realistic. My brother was interested in the space exhibition, and my parents were happy because we learned many new things.

At lunchtime, we were hungry, so we had sandwiches at the museum café. The food wasn't amazing, but it was fine. After lunch, we visited the gift shop. I wasn't interested in buying anything, but my brother was. He bought a small astronaut key ring.

At the end of the day, we were tired, but we were glad we went there. It was a fantastic family day.
