Hi, Amira.

I know on Sundays you always play board games at home, but how about playing a computer game with me this weekend? I've found a great computer game.

It's fun and easy. There are usually two teams, but you can have many players on a team. You only need one monitor and a controller for each team. Each team chooses an avatar.

How do you play the game? Well, a player presses a button to throw a ball at ten bottles. You score one point when you hit a bottle and it falls to the ground. The team who hits all the bottles first wins.

What do you think? Would you like to play? Who will win?

Bye!
