

More words you need...

- ▶ Cool (informal) used to say that you agree to something that has been arranged or are happy about something
- ▶ Of course used to say 'yes' in a polite way when someone asks for something
- ▶ Sure used to say 'yes' in a way that is slightly more informal when someone asks for something
- ▶ Wow! used to show that you are very surprised, usually in a good way
- ▶ Really? used to show that you are surprised at what someone has said
- ▶ That's fantastic/great/terrible, etc. } used to show how you feel about what someone has just said
- ▶ How exciting/terrible, etc. }
- ▶ Oh no! used when you suddenly understand that something bad has happened
- ▶ What a nuisance! } used to show that you are disappointed about something or feel disappointed for someone else
- ▶ What a shame! }
- ▶ Poor you! used to be kind when someone says they have a small problem, such as a slight illness or too much work
- ▶ Oh well used to say that a problem is not serious

of course

Do not use of course to accept an offer as this use can sound rude.

- ▶ A: Would you like some coffee?
- ▶ B: Of course! Yes, please.

Exercise 2

Match the statements (1–6) with the best responses (a–f).

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 He was only 22 when he died. | a That's fantastic. Well done! |
| 2 Hey, I passed my English exam! | b Really? Do you believe her? |
| 3 Could you give this to Sam when you see him next, please? | c Oh well, you can speak to him tomorrow. |
| 4 She told me she earns a hundred thousand dollars. | d Oh poor you! |
| 5 It's a bit late to call Hussein now. | e How terrible. |
| 6 I woke up with a headache. | f Of course – no problem. |

Exercise 3 39.4

Complete the dialogues. Sometimes more than one answer is possible. Listen and check.

Holly: This is my new dress, Melissa. What do you think?

Melissa: ¹ Wow ! You look amazing. Are you wearing it to Ian's party?

Holly: Yes. What time are you going to the party, by the way?

Melissa: About eight o'clock. Shall we go together?

Holly: ² _____ ! I'll call for you at 7.45.

Hannah: ³ _____ ! I've just realized I've left the key to my apartment at school.

Linda: Oh, what a ⁴ _____ !

Hannah: Do you think I could come to your place this afternoon till my mum gets home?

Linda: ⁵ _____ – no problem.

Use the words you've learned...

Practise telling someone a piece of news, then practise responding to someone else's news.