Task 2

Read the passage and decide whether the following statements are True (T) or False (F).

In the future, houses will be smarter and more connected than ever before. Technology will play a big role, making life easier and more comfortable. Imagine living in a house where everything, from lights to the thermostat, is controlled by your phone. This technology will be hidden, so you won't see wires or switches. Houses will also be designed to use space more efficiently, especially as more people choose to live alone. Furniture like beds might fold up into walls when not in use. Even the way houses are built will change, with more parts made in factories, making building faster and cheaper. Plus, future homes will help take care of the environment by using renewable energy and being part of a community that shares resources and green spaces.

1. You can control house lights with your phone. _____
2. Future homes will have visible wires everywhere. _____

Task 6

Read the passage and choose the best answer (A, B, C or D) for each question.

In the future, our houses will be very different from the ones we live in today. Many people believe we will live in "smart houses" filled with modern appliances. For example, we might have smart refrigerators that can help us buy food automatically when we do not have milk or eggs. There will also be home robots that can cook our meals, clean the floors, and even look after our pets while we are at school. Future houses will also be friendly with the environment. They will use solar panels on the roof to get energy from the sun. This means we will not need to use as much electricity from other sources. Some houses might be under the sea or high up in the sky to save space on land. These houses will be very comfortable, safe, and helpful for our busy lives.
