A Busy Weekend and a New Project

Carlos has a very busy weekend because he has several plans. On Saturday morning, he is meeting his classmates at the university. They are going to work on an English project about time management. Carlos is bringing his laptop and some notes. After the meeting, he is going to visit his grandparents for lunch.

On Saturday afternoon, Carlos is planning to finish a report for his Industrial Engineering class. He knows that he needs to set priorities because he has several tasks to complete. First, he is going to make a to-do list and decide which activities are most important. He is also going to use a timer and take short breaks. He doesn't want to multitask because it can slow him down.

On Sunday, Carlos is going to relax in the morning. In the afternoon, he is meeting his friends at a park. His friend Laura cannot come because she is working. Carlos calls another friend and leaves a message. He asks his friend to tell Laura that the meeting starts at 3:00 p.m. He also asks Laura to bring some snacks if she can come later.
