Kim: Hi Jamie, let's get started. What are you working on this week?

Jamie: Today and tomorrow I'm updating websites. On Friday, ¹ _____ with Max Willis.

Kim: Oh great, is that the guy from Ozone?

Jamie: Yes, that's right. ² _____ him some of the sites we've designed for other clients.

Kim: Are you going to give him a discount?

Jamie: I think ³ _____ with what we can do for him and he might pay full price for a website. But, if not, I'm going to offer him ten percent off the work.

Kim: Good. Now, I'd like to send you on a course next month. They'll be talking about how companies like ours can improve web security.

Jamie: That sounds like it'll be very useful. When is it?

Kim: ⁴ _____ it on the 25th.

Jamie: Oh, I might have something else on that day, but I'm sure I can change it.

Kim: That would be great, thanks. Now, is there anything else you'd like to talk about?

Jamie: Actually, there is one thing. I'm going to the dentist early on Thursday morning, and so ⁵ _____ later than usual. Of course, if I do, I'll stay late to cover it.

Kim: No problem at all. Thanks for letting me know.

Should you quit your job to travel the world?

Yes, live the dream says Michael Duram, a former banker from Brighton, who now travels full time.

Here are Michael's three reasons you should quit your job and travel the world.

* You're ¹ _____ to learn loads of new things. You can learn so much more from seeing the world – languages, cultures, history! It ² _____ not always be easy, but it will be worth it.

* It's likely that you can make money while you travel. It definitely ³ _____ be that hard for you to get short-term jobs, as long as you are open and flexible.

* I ⁴ _____ you will come to the end of your life wishing you had worked more. There's a good ⁵ _____ that if you don't follow your dream now, you'll never do it.

Long-term travel isn't that great, says Marika Vandesar, a student from Lancaster.

Marika loves to go on trips abroad. But here's why she won't be quitting her job and recommends that you think twice before doing so.

* One thing is certain about travel – it'll ⁶ _____ cost you a lot of money. There's a ⁷ _____ chance you could find a job along the way, but only if you're really lucky.

* It ⁸ _____ won't be as perfect as you hope. Travel bloggers usually post their very best photos to social media – it isn't all like that!

* Even if you have an amazing time ⁹ _____ be tough to return to regular life. It might ¹⁰ _____ difficult to find a new job and your friends may have moved on.
