

THE WASHINGTON REVIEWER

SOCIETY

TUESDAY, JULY 5

VOL. 40 NO. 2

The Economics Museum Helps Plan Your Future

By Melanie Holger

Last weekend, all the visitors at the Economics Museum were given a special gift. The director of the museum, Paul Williams, said: "We printed this brochure<sup>2</sup> to give recommendations on what to do and what not to do with our money. We shouldn't only show the history of economics." He also said that people make a lot of financial mistakes that affect their future. The most common mistake mentioned in the brochure is not having emergency savings. If you want the brochure, you can go to the museum and get one for free.

What?

When?

Where?

Who?

Why?

How?

THE WASHINGTON REVIEWER

POLITICS

TUESDAY, JULY 5

VOL. 40 NO. 2

Free Education for Adults

By Seth Banks

The Congress passed a law that states adults over 45 can get a high school diploma for free. The government is going to provide the funds for books and materials. High schools all over the country are going to make their facilities<sup>5</sup> available. Cindy Lawrence, director of the Institute of National Education, said: "Many adults couldn't study when they were younger, but they want to learn. This decision will help our country."

What?

Who?

Why?

How?

The Express Post

SHOWBIZ NEWZ

TUESDAY, JULY 5

VOL. 20 NO. 6

Wayne Sanders Destroyed by Fame!

By Joe King

Wayne Sanders is not the lovely actor we have seen on screen. Everybody says that no one wants to hang out with him or hire him anymore because he became an angry person after starring in his second movie. He couldn't handle fame. He threw the biggest parties in town and had a collection of luxury cars a few months ago. But recently he was seen eating at a cheap restaurant, alone. Money gone, friends goodbye. A former high school classmate reported that Wayne had never used his money very well. Poor Wayne! We'll miss him.

What?

When?

Who?

Why?

How?