

Breaking Bad - How Bryan Cranston Perfected Walter White

1. We weren't just _____ a performance of Brian playing a dark manipulative drug _____
2. Brian's expression offers us a _____ of emotions all at once: _____ at his limitations, _____ (now that he feels he's somewhat let off the _____), and _____ forever _____ the alternative
3. There's an intuitive _____ that he'll be able to deliver on the emotional _____ and intensity of the scene, _____ the conflicting emotions, _____ and subtext, _____
4. What is unique in character's lie?

5. How does an actor prepare for playing very deep scenes so naturally?
6. How does the movement of the actor's mouth change depending on the emotions that his character experiences?
7. Why may the audience sympathize with Bruce Willis's character less than Brian's?